

Time vs No Time

The Bible talks about a dimension where it is always a present tense NOW and is forever TODAY. We live in a three dimensional world where there is time divided into yesterday, today and tomorrow. The Christian assignment is to integrate the two, under the laws of spirit life.

Jesus came from a place where nothing ever changes into a dimension where everything is in a constant state of change.

Jesus had the capacity to translate the truth of the realm of spirit and to super-impose that state of truth upon the physical expression and activate an instantaneous change; result; Miracles.

I want to call to your attention the two realms in Ecclesiastes 3:15, "That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past."

Every thing is now; however God requires us the responsibility of knowing and learning from that which has come to, past.

While on one hand the Bible presents overwhelming evidence that the Kingdom of Heaven is a non geographical, spiritual, today, personal experience; there is also equally overwhelming evidence that the "promised land Kingdom" is a specific geographical, time framed, land with identified boundaries of rivers and seas.

Does this information not once again identify the necessity to integrate that which is real in a spiritual non sensual dimension with that which we can determine as real by the three dimensional senses, without destroying the law but to fulfill the law.

My focus, for forty-nine years of study and teaching has been on the spiritual aspect of personally appropriating the Kingdom as a Now/Today reality, without the need of anything else happening. I must now acknowledge that for the Kingdom to happen on the earth in a corporate way will require a planned and organized implementation. And it seems to make sense that a model, an operational model, would be a good idea. A model illustrating the spirit of the law made flesh.

I would like to believe that this group is representative of other groups--set apart by the Holy Spirit of God--whom He will network and integrate into an operational fulfillment of His Promise of an earthly Kingdom where Love and Peace will reign.
